THE CUPBOARD IS BARE

A lot of high-powered worrying is going on in California these days about the condition of state finances. It all boils down to a few simple facts, but the simplicity of the essentials is easing no minds, since the job of setting things right looks now like one of the toughest the state has ever faced. Fact number one is that California has no money. There is not a dime in the general fund. Fact number two is that the state has already borrowed $40,000,000 without authorization of the voters, simply by issuing warrants, or I. O. U.'s to banks. Fact number three is that we face a deficit of $80,000,000 at the end of the 1935-37 biennium. Fact number four is that there is no means now in sight for balancing the budget, and that the governor is opposed to calling a special session to consider the matter. Last Tuesday the bankers who hold the state's I. O. U.'s called on Merriam to see what was what, and to find out what was being done in the way of raising money to pay them back. The thing that brought the matter to a head was the refusal of the bankers and bond houses to gobble up a $2,000,000 issue of state warrants as they had previously. And the problems that faced Tuesday's gathering were manifold for the reasons listed above plus a number of conflicting individual attitudes among state officials.

WHITE HOUSE BOUND

Those who are dissatisfied with Merriam's handling of state matters claim the reason the chief executive does not want a special session is that he fears it will upset his own designs on the presidency of the United States. But whatever his reason, he has adopted the attitude that everything is all right. He maintains that there is no reason for worry, that California's credit is as good as gold, and that it will remain that way. Controller Ray L. Riley, on the other hand, is not a little perturbed. He took with him to Tuesday's meeting a definite opinion that steps should be taken to balance the budget without further delay. Lined up with Merriam is State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson. A statement from him last week insisted that the state is in the strongest financial position it has enjoyed for years, without any reason whatsoever to be alarmed. If the bankers refuse to take more I. O. U.'s, he says, the state can dip into special and trust funds amounting to some $30,000,000. This money, earmarked for highways, could be replaced by registered warrants, which could be used to pay contractors when payment is due. To this line of reasoning Johnson adds a closing remark that "our warrants are better than United States currency."

JAPAN GETS A WARNING

Forceful warnings to Japan came simultaneously out of the capitals of the United States and Great Britain last week. Secretary of State Cordell Hull issued a formal statement saying that the United States does not look with equanimity on the autonomy movement in North China, commonly known to be inspired by Japan. Although he did not mention Japan specifically, his meaning was unmistakable. The words pleading that "all nations" respect existing treaties concerning China's integrity really said, in effect, that Japan was going too far to suit America in setting up puppet states in China. An interesting contrast was the British warning. It was contained in a speech by Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, and openly proclaimed that Japan had best clarify her position in China. Furthermore, the British diplomat said, anything lending color to the belief that Japanese influence was behind the North China autonomy move "can only do harm to the prestige of Japan." Even this may seem a rather roundabout pronouncement to the average forthright, blunt-speaking American, but in the world of international diplomacy it stands as a masterpiece of directness.

Youthful Players Ready for Public Performance 13th

"The Late Christopher Bean," a farce comedy, is being presented by the senior class of Campbell high school at the grammar school auditorium Friday evening, Dec. 13. The production is under the supervision of James Clancy, actor, critic, and writer of plays at San Jose State college.

The plot of the current offering revolves around the life and paintings of the late Christopher Bean. His fame is not "discovered" until several years after his death. Abby, the help of the Haggatt family, was the only person who had ever been interested in him and his paintings, and the few that had not been destroyed were in Abby's possession.

The scorn that the Haggatt family had shown toward Chris and his paintings was suddenly turned to greed when their great value was discovered. Many interesting events are the result of Christopher Bean's fame.

Those in the cast and the parts they are taking follow:

Dr. Haggatt, a middle-aged physician, Willis Green; Mrs. Haggatt, the doctor's wife, Corinne Del Grande; Abby, the "help" of the Haggatt family, Mildred Bowling; Susan Haggatt, the young and pretty daughter, Laura May Sanford; Ada Haggatt, the second daughter, Eva Facchino; Warren Creamer, the town painter and paper hanger, Bob Brydon; Talant, a shabbily dressed New York art critic, Charles Boyd; Rosen, a middle-aged art critic, Vincent Fisci; and Miss Davenport, a well-known art critic, Betty Starr.

The performance, which starts at 8 o'clock sharp, will be augmented by the appearance of the high school orchestra, under the direction of A. A. Thielke, and there will be a violin solo by David Bohrmann, accompanied at the piano by Juanita Knowles.

Country Women Plan Christmas Program Dec. 16

The Christmas season will be observed by the Country Woman's club at its next meeting, Monday, Dec. 16.

The committee appointed for the day included Mrs. Mark E. Purmort, chairman, Mrs. Roy G. Archibald, Mrs. A. B. Covey, Mrs. Flora Crow and Mrs. Ralph H. Hyde. As some of the ladies will not be able to serve, the general program committee, Mrs. G. S. Robson, Mrs. W. I. Merrill and Mrs. A. W. Wellington will assist.

Mrs. Herbert Jones of Los Gatos will give a talk on "The Madonna In Art," illustrated with colored stereopticon slides.

A group of students from the high school will contribute some of the lesser known carols as part of the musical program.

Contributions of jellies and jams to be used at the grammar school cafeteria for some of the children's lunches will be made at this time, and those who did not participate

CHESS WITH BATTLESHIPS

Japan's inroads into North China are by no means the only developments that threaten to upset the peace balance of the Pacific and Far East. Things could very well be thrown dangerously out of plumb at the naval conference which got under way in London last Monday. Unless Japan, Britain and America work out some sort of naval armaments treaty to replace the scrapped Washington agreement, the future of China, British and Dutch East Indies, the Philippines and even Australia and Soviet Siberia will hang under a threatening cloud. Japan has a whole string of mandated islands extending two thirds of the way between Hawaii and the Philippines, and she has vowed to keep them in spite of the fact that they are supposed to go back to the League of Nations. If this naval treaty fails, these islands will be converted into small fortresses and naval bases, and a grim game of chess will begin in the Pacific with the three great naval powers as participants.

LLOYD WOOD URGES USE OF XMAS SEALS

AID IN ASSURING FUTURE SECURITY OF CHILDREN, SAYS LOCAL EDUCATOR

Lloyd K. Wood, principal of the high school and regional director for the county tuberculosis association, is in charge of the Christmas seal sales campaign in this district. In the following statement Wood urges support of this very worthwhile movement:

Christmas seals, offered for sale as a means of support of the Santa Clara County Tuberculosis association, are being distributed this week in Campbell by a selected crew of students from the social studies and history classes of Campbell high school, under the direction of Miss Eunice Reader. Last week posters and letters were handed out by the students, each of whom is assigned a square block, and now householders are being called upon and given an opportunity to make purchases of seals for use on their Christmas mail.

The tuberculosis association has achieved considerable success in controlling this disease. If it is given adequate support it will in all likelihood be able to so far stamp it out that children will not be in constant danger of infection.

Support of the association as an act of charity which at the same time helps to give us increased assurance that our own children will not contract this terrible malady.

Those who do not have an opportunity to purchase seals from students may secure them at the office of the Campbell high school or at The Campbell Press.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Ann Talia, bride-elect of Mark Skrimetta of Los Gatos, was tendered a surprise shower party Saturday evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. M. J. Talia of Winchester road. Mrs. Talia was assisted by the Misses Mary Talia and Ann Yerkovich.

The large gathering of young people presented the guest of honor with a host of lovely gifts that filled to overflowing a large basket decorated with dainty-colored crepe paper.

In the student loan fund roll call last meeting and wish to do so are asked to bring their 16 cents Monday.

Local Quints Split Honors With San Jose High School

By Willis Green

Campbell high's 30-pound and unlimited basketball teams met San Jose high there Friday night in two games that will no doubt be hard to beat in interest and fair play. The local teams showed what they were really made of in the last halves of these games. At half time the score was 17-6 in the 30-pound tilt, and 21-15 in the unlimited contest. Final scores were, 30's, 27-18; unlimiteds, 32-38. Campbell lost the "30" game, but won handily in the heavier class.

J. Neidire, R. Neidire, Helbrush, Yamaoka and Lee scored for San Jose's 30's, while Sunseri, Wellington, Cabral, Borg and Bans scored for Campbell. Ottis, Paul Henning, Lowe, Murphy and Paulatto scored for San Jose's heavies, while Frank, Farley, Lovo, Bachman and Brydon "rang the bell" for Campbell.

TWO CAMPBELL BOYS ON SAN JOSE STATE VARSITY QUINT; TO MEET BRONCS SATURDAY

Paradiso Unit Host to Sixth District C.P.T.

El Paradiso council was host to the sixth district, Congress of Parents and Teachers, at an all-day session last week, held in the Congregational church of Campbell.

Mrs. L. D. Wool, president of the district, conducted the business sessions, and Mrs. Charles Danforth, fourth vice president and director of public welfare, was in charge of the program.

Mary R. Gruetzman and Mrs. J. D. Helps of the county prevention were interesting speakers. Mrs. David Hibbs urged the purchase of Christmas seals and explained the use of the money.

The appointment of Mrs. C. E. Williams of Campbell as parent education chairman was ratified and Mrs. E. M. Livinghouse was appointed home-making chairman to fill a vacancy.

An original skit entitled "All Work and No Play" was given by members of the public welfare department.

The principal speaker of the day was Miss Sophie Hardy of San Francisco, executive secretary of The Children's Protective society, her subject being, "What Can the P. T. A. Do to Prevent Delinquency."

The next meeting of this district will be held in San Jose with the San Jose city council as hostesses.

SUNDAY SCHOOL STOCKING FILLING PARTY TUESDAY

The Methodist Sunday school will hold its annual Christmas stocking filling party in the church parlors next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Rose Hanger and her class are in charge of the program and refreshments.

TO BE MARRIED

Dr. Harold D. Cramer and Miss Claire Burke of Palo Alto will be married at the Stanford chapel Sunday afternoon at 3:30. Friends of the families are cordially invited to the ceremony.

San Jose, Dec. 12—The finest basketball season opener San Jose court fans have ever witnessed will raise the curtain on the 1935-36 hoop season Saturday night when the Santa Clara Broncos and the San Jose State Spartans clash in Spartan pavilion.

Spartan hopes took a decided skid downward when Bud Olsen, who has been holding down the first string center spot, suffered a badly twisted foot in scrimmage a few nights ago. Olsen is definitely out of Saturday's tilt with the Broncos, but it is not known whether a bone is broken or the pivot man has pulled a ligament.

The injury has necessitated the move of Captain Larry Arnerich to center and Karl Drexel into Arnerich's guard position. The present number one combination finds Dave Downs and Mel DeSelle teaming at the two forwards with the above trio.

Another new change is the advancement of Ralph (Lefty) Fulton back to the varsity. Fulton was relegated to the jayvee group, but his fine play has brought him a spot on the varsity squad. The left-hander from Campbell should be quite a help to Hubbard's defensive problems.

Saturday night's engagement will be a red-letter game in the history of the Broncos and the Spartans. Varsity teams of the two schools are meeting for the first time in some 30 years.

The rival coaches, Bill Hubbard of the "staters" and George Barsi of Santa Clara, are starting out their basketball mentoring at these colleges this year, and neither would like anything more than a win over his rival. Hubbard and Barsi are both graduates of their respective schools.

The preliminary game takes on almost as much significance as the varsity set-to, with the freshman teams opening the hostilities. The Spartan Babes took a rude trouncing in football from the Broncos, and are out to gain revenge on the hardwood.

Campbell Cubs Get Charter

The "den-mothers," with whom the groups meet, are Mrs. Dan Clark, Mrs. R. Howe, Mrs. Fred Jones and Mrs. Carl Field.

Kiwanians Hold Closed Meeting

Kiwanians held a closed business meeting Tuesday evening with President George Burrow presiding. Being an instruction meeting, chairmen of several committees, past presidents of the club, gave short reports for their respective committees: Ralph Hyde for programs; Roy Archibald, interclub relations; Guy Farley, attendance; Ira Abbott, boy and girl activities; Dr. Walter Merrill, music and child welfare, and President Burrow for the house committee.

Ben Curry made a plea for more beautification of the town and community.

Guy Farley will write the bulletin for the coming year, and Ralph Hyde will continue as program fixer. These two will be relieved of other committee activities.

Roosevelt's Speech at Georgia Homecoming

ONE hundred thousand Democrats, mostly Georgians, gathered in the stadium of Georgia Tech at Atlanta for a homecoming and heard President Roosevelt deliver a characteristic speech, full of confidence, assurance of prosperity and praise for what the New Deal has accomplished. And he did not neglect to attack warmly the critics of his administration. In reviewing the economic and social advances since his inauguration he gave out what was considered the keynote for his campaign for reelection, and definitely announced his candidacy—unnecessarily—by asserting that life in the United States has improved in the last two and a half years and will continue to improve "if I have anything to do with it."

Mr. Roosevelt promised that lavish government spending was over and that the nation could look forward with assurance to a decreasing deficit, and asserted that the government credit is higher than that of any other great nation. He bitterly criticized the treasury policies prior to his entrance into the White House, traced the relief policies as opposed to doles and declared that the peak of appropriations has passed.

The President said farm income in the United States has risen since 1932 a total of nearly three billions, and this additional farm income "has meant the rebirth of city business, the reopening of closed factories, the doubling of automobile production, the improvement of transportation and the giving of new employment to millions of people."

"The word 'progress,' concluded Mr. Roosevelt, 'is a better word than 'recovery,' for it means not only a sound business and a sound agriculture from the material point of view, but it means, with equal importance, a sound improvement in American life as a result of continuing and forceful effort on the part of our people, and, through them, on the part of their government. I am certain that that is your purpose; and that is why I continue my confidence, my faith in the people of America."

In those phrases and in his high praise of the New Deal experiments, the President made clear his intention of carrying on his program for altering and bettering the social and economic life of the American people regardless of the return of material prosperity.

Governor Talmadge of Georgia, who, though a Democrat, is a severe critic of the President and many of his policies, pointedly absented himself from the meeting at Atlanta, spending the day on his farm. Several days later he replied to Mr. Roosevelt's speech in a radio address.

Republican opinion of the President's address might be summarized in the remark of Harrison E. Spangler, director of the Chicago G. O. P. headquarters: "Gulliver has started his travels again and we'll all be hearing some more tall stories."

Situation in Europe Is Becoming Tenser

EUROPEAN diplomats, especially the British and Premier Laval of France, are exceedingly clever and resourceful, but if they are to extricate their nations from the present threatening state of affairs they will need all their smartness. Though decision as to the imposition of an oil embargo against Italy was postponed until December 9 to give Laval a chance to conciliate Mussolini, the duce refused to make any gesture toward peace. Italians were authoritatively warned not to mistake diplomatic exchanges between their premier and the representatives of Great Britain and France as "peace talk," and were told there was no reason to believe Mussolini had modified his minimum terms already presented to Sir Eric Drummond and Laval's representative. Also he has declined further to conciliate Britain by removing more troops from Libya and has repeated his warning that he will consider an oil embargo an unfriendly gesture. He and all Italians are especially resentful against Great Britain, which apparently intends to insist on the oil ban. And now they are getting very sore at France, despite Laval's efforts to maintain friendly relations between the two countries.

Sir Samuel Hoare

There were reports that Italian troops were being massed along the French frontier. The British government was engrossed with the troublesome situation. Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, received timely orders from his physician to take a rest in Switzerland, and it was announced he would stop in Paris for a conference with Premier Laval. The admiral was preparing for eventualities and ordered officers of the royal navy reserve to report at once for duty at Plymouth. These men have been serving as officers and engineers in the merchant marine. All members of the League of Nations, including Italy, are exceedingly anxious to know what will be the course of the United States concerning the oil embargo.

End of Federal Relief Shifts Millions to WPA Rolls

WITH the end of November direct federal relief came to an end, and it was officially announced that 3,500,000 persons had been shifted from relief rolls to the WPA pay rolls and put to work. Other millions of employables who have been receiving the federal dole but who cannot be hired by the Works Progress administration because state quotas have been filled must be cared for by the states which will be helped by the final allotments made by the FERA before it went out of existence. As for the "unemployables," numbering perhaps 4,000,000, Aubrey Williams, assistant administrator, said the problem of their care would be solved satisfactorily.

Statistical charts on the relief situation, prepared by the research section of the FERA, were issued in pamphlet form and show that unemployment decreased about 3,000,000 in the first two years of the Roosevelt administration.

New Corn-Hog Program Announced by Wallace

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WALLACE announced the corn-hog program for 1936-37. Designed to maintain a balance between the interests of the producer and the consumer, this new plan will permit a 30 per cent increase in hog production next year over 1935, thus preparing the way for possible reductions in pork prices to the housewife; and to restrict corn acreage to about 95,000,000 acres, an increase of about 1,400,000 acres, over the amount harvested this year.

After appraisal by community committees and review by county allotment committees, a corn acreage base and a market hog base will be fixed. Co-operating producers must agree to plant corn next year on at least 25 per cent of their base acreages. They will be permitted to retire from 10 to 30 per cent of their base acreage for soil-improving or erosion-preventing purposes. Hog growers must agree to produce between 50 and 100 per cent of the base market production.

The 1936 corn adjustment payment will be 35 cents a bushel on the appraised yield times the adjusted acreage, less the pro rata share of local administrative expenses. Corn adjustment payments will be made in two installments. The first, at the rate of 20 cents a bushel, is to be made about August 1. The second will come due about December 31, 1936, at the rate of 15 cents per bushel.

A payment of $1.25 per head will be made on each hog in the base. Deductions will be made at the rate of $2.50 per head if a producer fails to raise 50 per cent of his base numbers. The total payment to a producer will be the same for a production ranging from 50 per cent to 100 per cent of his base.

The 1937 rates will be announced by November 30, 1936, but the rate on corn will not be less than 30 cents per bushel and the rate on hogs will not be less than $1.25 per head.

President May Attend National Convention

THERE is a possibility that President Roosevelt will attend the national Democratic convention which will re-nominate him. It was reported in a Baltimore paper that he wished the convention to be held in an eastern city, and some one at the White House, when asked about this, replied:

"Maybe. The President might want to go, and he would not want to travel too far."

Philadelphia has been under consideration by Democratic leaders, it was learned, but the question of money remains a prime consideration in the choice of the host city.

Death of Dr. J. H. Breasted, Noted Orientalist

DR. JAMES HENRY BREASTED of the University of Chicago, one of the world's leading orientalists, died in New York of an illness contracted on shipboard as he was returning from a visit to research expeditions in the Near East which were under his direction. He was seventy years old. His expeditions to Egypt and eastern Asia and his excavations there added vastly to the history of civilization.

Princess Victoria, favorite sister of King George of England, died at her home in Buckinghamshire at the age of sixty-seven. She suffered from ill health through most of her life and never was married.

War Between Japan and China Draws Nearer

DOWNRIGHT war between the Chinese armies of Dictator Chiang Kai-shek and the Japanese appeared almost certain when the autonomy movement in north China was revived in eastern Hopei and Chahar provinces by Yin Jukeng, the administrative commissioner and friend of Japan. Leaders of the rest of the region were undecided on their course, but Japanese troops began to pour in by the trainload. Three thousand of them with full war equipment arrived in Tientsin, and the garrison at Peking was more than doubled. The Fengtai railway junction a few miles from Peking was seized, Colonel Takahashi, military attache, asserting this was necessary because the rolling stock was being moved south threatening the isolation of the Japanese forces.

In Nanking officials said the national government was determined to meet with force any attempt to force autonomy on the territory south of Hopei and Chahar provinces, and the executive Yuan proclaimed five sweeping reforms designed to stop the spread of the movement. Chiang was hurrying large bodies of troops to the northward. He also sought to hold the

Amnesty for Greek Rebels Decried by King

KING GEORGE II of Greece has decreed amnesty for the participants in the abortive revolt of last March, but he specified that "persons considered dangerous" may be confined, if necessary, to certain localities. The confiscated fortunes of the leaders were returned. The king succeeded in forming a neutral cabinet with Constantine Demerdjis, a law professor, as premier, though the friends of General Kondylis, leader in the restoration coup, were displeased.

German Pastors Rebel Against Censorship

HANS KERRL, German church dictator, has stirred up another great row by placing a censorship on the Confessional synod to prevent the pastors from sending out communications which have not received his approval. The pastors resented this hotly and adopted the course of making all announcements from their pulpits rather than in pastoral letters first submitted to Kerrl. The preachers also told their congregations frankly just what they thought of Kerrl and his orders.

Potato Control Act Is Now in Effect

THE potato control act, which provides for a tax of three-fourths of a cent a pound on all potatoes harvested after December 1 and sold in excess of a national allotment, is now in effect. The first crop to which it will apply, according to AAA officials, will be harvested late in December. An allotment of 226,600,000 bushels was fixed by the AAA a month ago. Officials said this allotment was large enough to cover the amount of potatoes usually sold in a year and that few persons would be required to pay the tax.

Each grower will receive from a county committee tax exemption stamps to cover the amount of his allotment. The law says these stamps must be attached to packages when the potatoes are sold. Buyers and sellers of unstamped potatoes are liable to a $1,000 fine.

Mississippi Valley Body Adopts Resolutions

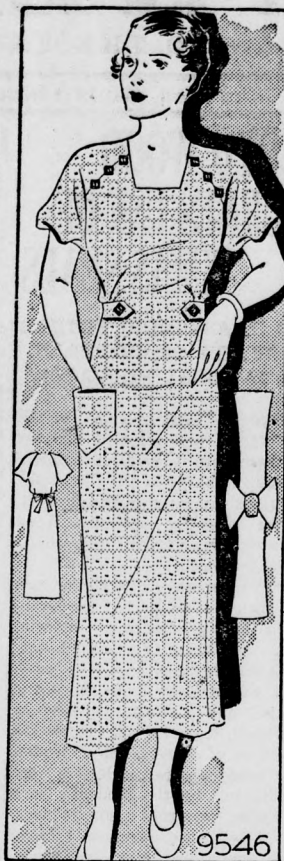

MEETING in St. Louis, the Mississippi Valley association adopted resolutions opposing any attempt to limit the "right of water carriers to establish and maintain such port to port rates as they see fit."

The convention, which again went on record as opposing the coordination of transportation agencies under the interstate commerce commission, criticized I. C. C. rulings "which have the effect of permitting railroads to cut rates... for the purpose of killing off waterway transportation."

The delegates, representing mid-continental agricultural shipping and industrial interests of 25 states again opposed ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty.

Fault Finding Is Habit Fathered by Jealousy

What a gift some people have of finding fault. Praise anything, no matter what, and they will immediately confront you with a "but." It really seems to hurt them when you take pleasure in admiring anything, and so they hasten to take you down a peg. It is a petulant habit arising from envy or jealousy.

Let us look well to ourselves, lest we help to swell the list of these unhappy fault-finders.

Household Questions

Woolen socks will not shrink if washed carefully in tepid water and white soap suds. Rinse in clear, lukewarm water, wring out, and hang in the air to dry quickly.

It is much quicker when frying doughnuts, to cut dough in diamond shapes instead of using a doughnut cutter. They taste just as good when cut in this way.

If you enjoy painting try your skill on one of the unpainted dressing tables. They are most useful and ornamental.

Have you tried serving baked cranberry apples with a roast pork dinner? Fill the cavity left in apple after core has been removed with cranberry sauce and bake.

It is time to change the water in goldfish bowl when water is so warm fish come to the top of bowl for air. Goldfish like to be kept cool.

Keep onions under cold water when peeling to prevent the tears coming.

Casserole dishes made of meat, vegetables or fish can be cooked in the morning and reheated just before they are to be served.

Always test cake before removing from the oven, even though it may already have baked the length of time stated in the recipe.

Sometimes roast beef gravy is light colored. If you wish it to be a rich golden brown, put sugar in frying pan until it has browned, then dissolve it in water and add to gravy.

"I get more than my money's worth when I buy Calumet," says Mrs. Nancy E. Williams, 499 Moreland Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

"It's real quality at a saving!" says Mrs. K. J. Tobin, of Beverly Hills, Ill. "I've never had a baking failure with Calumet."

Why does Calumet give such "luck"? Why is it different from other baking powders? Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick one for the mixing bowl—a slower one for the oven. This Double-Action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening. Calumet is a product of General Foods.

New! Big 10¢ Can! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history... The regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25¢! And ask to see the new, big 10¢ can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Once more America's battle against tuberculosis is on. From now until Christmas an army of workers will carry forward the drive to sell Christmas seals to replenish the war chest of the nation's major offensive against disease.

As always, a certain proportion of the people will not take the trouble to buy any simply because they fail to realize what great accomplishments even the smallest purchases help to make possible.

Back in 1900 when this drive began, tuberculosis was America's most deadly enemy. Today as a cause of death it is seventh behind heart disease, cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, nephritis, accidents and pneumonia. The "T. B." death rate has dropped from 201.9 per 100,000 population to 56.6. And still, despite this effectiveness of the war against it, this preventable disease killed 71,609 Americans last year.

Already wonders have been worked with the proceeds of these Yuletide campaigns. But there is still much to be done, much that your support can bring about.

Let us all buy Christmas seals and help save more lives next year.

SAFEGUARDING AMERICA

Safeguarding America against fire is a man-sized job, and it has been carried on in a man-sized way over the past several years with the result that steady reduction of life loss and dollar loss has been achieved.

But just recently came news that suggested perhaps America may be a bit too proud of this record and somewhat disposed to relax vigilance therefore. For the first time since June, 1932, losses increased through two months successively—September and October.

Total for the nation in October was $19,785,000, a rise of 8.5 per cent over the corresponding month of 1934.

Whether or not this is a definite indication that the trend has turned upward again, we cannot know until November and December statistics are in. In any event, we must not let our good work delude us into the notion that the fire danger is now any less dangerous.

LOOK TO THE LAND

One school of economists holds that if you really want to know how times are in any nation—look to the land. How are the farmers doing?

California got a cheering answer to that question last week when A. A. Brock, state director of agriculture, disclosed that California farm income is back to the half-billion dollar mark for the first time since the depression.

Speaking at the annual convention of the California Farmers and Fruit Growers association, Brock said the 1934 income reached $493,500,000 and that the 1935 income up to Aug. 31 was $40,000,000 above the same period a year ago. He concluded it was reasonable to suppose that the 1936 income will easily pass the half billion dollar mark.

We have experienced several false starts out of the depression. The present upswing has lasted longer than any, with virtually all businesses participating. And now when we look to the land and get an answer of this sort, we have reason to believe that this is at last the real, the sound recovery.

EXIT THE DOLE

Latest accounting of the relief situation in California indicates that the dole is on its way out. For many moons no better news has come to those of us (and that means all of us) who find the very word "dole" exceedingly disagreeable.

Reports of a threatened relief fund shortage had the state jittery for awhile, but this worry passed when assurance came that we have the means to continue taking care of the unemployed. Added to the assurance was a heartening review of the entire situation.

This, at present, is the situation. There are 110,000 on WPA payrolls, and there will be 160,000 by Dec. 14. Frank Y. McLaughlin, state emergency relief director, predicts that a mere 40,000 will remain on direct relief at that time, as compared with something over 90,000 today.

As for the money problem, the SERA expects to have a balance on hand of nearly two and a half million when the new year begins, over and above the two millions monthly provided by the state. And though the "final" allotment of federal money for direct relief was made last week, McLaughlin reports the load will be so reduced by the first of the year that from then on state funds alone can carry it.

There will probably always have to be, from now on some sort of work relief on a small scale even after prosperity returns. But the exit of the dole is in tune with the times, in tune with the song that is singing the return of prosperity.

GAS TAX DIVERSION GOES ON

Gas tax diversion is anathema to Californians. Suggestions for using the motorists' money for any other purpose than roads and their maintenance are no less than fighting words in the Golden State.

Yet what amounts to gas tax diversion is actually happening day after day, year after year—and the average overburdened taxpayer is entirely unaware of it.

Not readily apparent, but obvious after you think about it, is the fact that these funds are paying for what is really capital equipment of a big business—the highway trucking industry. Highways are part of a trucking firm's equipment, just as telegraph wires are part of the equipment of Western Union, or Postal.

Highway authorities will tell you that the greatest amount of wear and tear on road surfaces is caused by constant pounding of heavy and often overloader commercial vehicles. But commercial vehicles pay no more gasoline tax than the private automobile.

Noted Artist Designed Christmas Seal

Ernest Hamlin Baker, noted artist and illustrator, of Carmel, N. Y., was the designer of the 1935 Christmas Seal. He is shown at work on the painting as Miss Virginia McMullen, of New York, dressed in a costume of the 1860's poses for him. Christmas Seals will be placed on sale

Thanksgiving Day by the 2,000 affiliated tuberculosis associations throughout the country to finance their campaign of prevention and education against the disease, which is the greatest cause of death in the United States between the ages of 15 and 45. Insert shows the seal.

Therefore, just in the degree that trucks and busses are harder on highways that your light-weight family car, just in that degree are gasoline tax funds being diverted into the treasuries of highway transportation companies.

If the tax money were to be used to pay for what is more obviously the capital equipment of other businesses, a chorus of protest would rise from the people. What would we say, for example, if public funds paid for the transmission lines of private power companies, or for telephone poles, or for the race tracks that speedways use?

Transportation of goods and passengers over the highways is necessary of course. And the companies engaged in this business can scarcely build their own roads.

But it seems only fair to insist that the big, heavy vehicles pay in proportion to the wear and tear they inflict—and that we bring under control the alarming and unneeded increase in commercial use of the highways.

Punditas Observe Dads' Night Dec. 4

One of the events of the club year to which members of Pundita circle always look forward is the evening on which the husbands are entertained, designated in their year book as "Dads' Night." This occasion was observed on Dec. 4 at Community hall, and another happy evening was added to the already long list of such events.

Mrs. Leslie R. Davidson, Mrs. A. Christian Anderson, Mrs. Elmer F. Pope, Mrs. Benjamin O. Curry and Miss Mary Candee were the committee responsible for the beautiful decorations, and the entertainment. A salad and dessert course were served, the company being seated at 13 small tables, encircled a round center one almost hidden under a wealth of toyon berries surrounded by a circle of lighted red candles. The arrangement of berries, greenery and candles on the mantle was also the subject of many compliments.

Hugh Cramer, accompanied at the piano by Miss Jeanette Wellington, contributed materially to the evening's pleasure by singing a group of songs: Poor Man's Garden (Roydon Barrie), Hills of Home (Oscar J. Fox) and Give A Man A Horse He Can Ride (Jessie O'Hara).

Dutch whist and other games which were played after the refreshment hour, provided further diversion.

On Dec. 18 the circle will assemble at the home of Mrs. C. E. York for the annual Christmas party. Seasonal songs and other music will be presented by a group of children, and members will exchange small gifts from a tree. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Stanley Smith and Mrs. George W. Page.

NEAL KENNEDY HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Neal Kennedy was host to a group of 12 of his young playmates at an afternoon and supper party Friday in celebration of his ninth birthday anniversary.

A color scheme of red was used on the dining table, with small Christmas trees which delighted the youthful guests.

Mrs. Ella Kennedy and Mrs. Mary Palmer, the two grandmothers, and a few other adults were entertained in an adjoining room, where they also enjoyed the party.

BOHNETT LOW BIDDER ON SALINAS UNDERPASS

Floyd O. Bohnett was the lowest bidder for the construction of an undergrade crossing at Salinas when bids were opened in Sacramento Dec. 10. The amount of the bid was $249,108.

Mr. Bohnett and his company were the successful bidders for three of the water conservation dams in this valley, which are now awaiting rainfall.

The Misses Ethelyn and Muriel Roed, who came to California a year ago in company with their brother, are leaving Monday from San Jose for their home at Fertile, Minn.

The FARMERS' CORNER
by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Some sage philosopher of things political once remarked that governmental reforms are often more dangerous than the evils they seek to correct!

Quite probably the philosopher was bilious, or at least unduly cynical, at the time of his epigrammatic outburst, but the fact remains that his statement is all too true in many instances.

The present agitation for a one-house legislature in California—the so-called unicameral system—is a striking case in point.

Undoubtedly well-intentioned and honestly proposed, the unicameral plan is nonetheless ten times more dangerous to the welfare of California government and California citizens than any of the governmental evils which it seeks to eliminate.

To rural and agricultural California, in particular, it would mean absolute surrender to the domination of the cities in all state legislation. And such a surrender, in the final analysis, would be as disastrous to city residents as to the farmer.

Rural California's voice in the present legislative set-up is the result of a determined campaign some years ago by the California Farm Bureau federation, the Agricultural Council of California, the California Farmers' union, and other farm groups, culminating in the enactment of the so-called "federal plan" of legislative representation.

Under the "federal plan," the assembly districts are apportioned solely on a population basis, with the result that Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda counties control 46 of the 80 assembly votes, with the remaining 34 votes scattered among the other 55 counties.

Senate districts, under the present plan, however, are apportioned on a basis of both population and territory, with the members from rural areas in the majority.

The net result is a "balance of power" between the two houses—one urban controlled and the other predominantly rural—which has compelled the cities to recognize the rights of the country districts, and the farm areas to deal fairly with the cities. Although far from perfect, the present set-up has at least required a policy of "live and let live" which has prevented flagrant discrimination against any group or area.

The so-called unicameral legislative system may be adaptable to some states, where city-rural lines are not sharply drawn. In Nebraska, for instance—the only state which has adopted the plan—rural areas would dominate any legislative set-up, whether based on territory or population. But in California, the situation is radically different.

Population is the sole basis of representation under the one-house plan. And in California, three metropolitan counties—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda—represent a population of 3,317,000, or nearly 500,000 more than one-half of the state total. In other words, as Senator Charles H. Deuel of Chico, one of the states' ablest rural legislators, already has pointed out, the one-house legislature would be a city legislature, with the country districts tagging along as the tail to the kite. There can be no escape from that conclusion.

An urban-dominated legislature might mean gross tax discrimination; it might mean that the bulk of the tax burden would be passed back to the country districts, either by an ad valorem levy, a transactions tax, or some other measure which would fall most heavily on the man least able to pay; it might mean control of the state harbor at San Francisco by San Francisco politicians; it might mean the break-down of every protection the farmer has built up against trespass; it might mean certain defeat for legislation of vital importance to farm security and farm recovery.

And regardless of all else, it would definitely mean that the farmer and rural Californian must come into the legislature as a supplicant—begging for consideration and with no power to demand it. Rural California cannot afford the experiment. And for the same reason, it cannot afford to countenance the one-house legislature.

James Black New P. G. E. President

James B. Black was elected president of the Pacific Gas & Electric company at a meeting of the company's directors on Nov. 20. He took over his duties at once, succeeding the late A. F. Hockenbeamer.

Mr. Black is a Californian and formerly was vice president and general manager of the Great Western Power company, which was absorbed by the P. G. & E. in 1930. He has had 23 years' experience in the utility industry—15 in operating positions and eight in activities relating to financial matters. He is nationally known as an able and progressive executive.

In the words of C. O. G. Miller, speaking for the board of directors, "Mr. Black, who is 45 and in the prime of life, was chosen president because of his wide knowledge of public utility affairs. He has had experience in matters of finance as well as operation. He is forward looking and public-spirited and, as a Californian, has a clear understanding of the problems facing the gas and electric utilities in this state."

Mr. Black was born in Sycamore, Ill., in 1890, and came to California with his parents when he was ten years of age. He was graduated from Lick school in San Francisco in 1908 and from the University of California in 1912, with the degree of bachelor of science.

In the same year he entered the employ of the Great Western Power company as a service inspector. He climbed steadily up the ladder—to the post of general sales manager in 1918, general manager in 1922 and vice president and general manager in 1923. In 1926 he also became vice president of the Western Power corporation, of which the Great Western Power company and the San Joaquin Light and Power corporation were the principal operating subsidiaries. The Western Power corporation was acquired by the North American company in 1925 and two years later Mr. Black went to New York as vice president of that company, but continued to serve as an officer and director of the California subsidiaries.

In 1930 Mr. Black conducted the negotiations which resulted in the transfer of the North American company's operating subsidiaries in

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By WILLIS GREEN

At the combined meetings of Miss Thomas', Miss Neilsen's and Mr. Lewis' home rooms, "The Fatal Quest," a tragedy monologue, was presented. The cast included Richard Allen as the king, Hazel Comacho as the queen, Clyde Allen as the duke, Virginia Binder as the princess, Marion Criscione as the announcer, and Jessie Costello and Deloris Fellman as the curtains. The production, aided by the singing of "Treasure Island," by Martha Boyd, was a very decided success.

Quoting from C. P. Klassen, director of the high school vocal music department, "The operetta books have been purchased and the glee clubs, together with many other boys and girls, are busily learning the songs. This operetta, 'Miss Cherry Blossom,' has gained wide popularity at other renditions, and we can expect a very good performance."

If hard work of students and leaders has anything to do with a good performance, the last phrase of Mr. Klassen's statement will no doubt be correct.

"Brush the Magician" performed before the assembly last Tuesday. The entire school was talking during the afternoon, trying to figure out how the tricks were performed. Parents were invited, admission being ten cents.

The juniors have selected their class rings, and are ordering them this week.

Although no hour for boys' glee club was provided on the school schedule, a fine lot of boys are found in attendance two afternoons a week, in the annex. The group is busily engaged in learning operetta and pep songs. If there are any other boys interested in vocal music, they are invited to attend.

The girls' "jinx" was a decided success, according to those who attended. Prizes were given, and a good time was had by all.

Pamphlets On Marine Corps

Postmaster Ira H. Grim has received a supply of interesting marine corps pamphlets, for distribution to those in the community desiring information about this colorful branch of the military service.

One of these is a brochure, which gives the history of "Old Glory," the flag code and colored illustrations of the "Original Stars and Stripes," "Grand Union," "Lake Erie," "Rattlesnake," "Fifteen Stars and Stripes," and "First Navy Jack" flags.

A Yuletide Escapade

by
Helen Gaisford

TOOTS reigned supreme in the Martin household. Except at Christmas time. Then Toots was ordered from his favorite corners, and expressed his displeasure by a switch of his tail.

Toots was a big black persian, with long silky fur and wide yellow eyes. It was pleasant under the kitchen stove, where delicious odors of suet and fowl mingled in the warm air. "Get out of here, ye beast," shouted Cook, who was not quite herself during the holidays. "Sure I can't step but what you're underfoot."

Toots arched his back and withdrew to the parlor. "Never lose your temper," was his attitude. "Never sputter and scratch; express your displeasure in dignity and disdain."

Beside the fireplace were a stool and pillow which were peculiarly his own. Onto these Toots leaped, and curled up for a snooze. "Oh, no, Toots, darling," said Betty. "The tree's going there." And Toots was picked up under one arm, and his stool shoved off to a cold corner. "You must look Christmassy, too," Betty cried gayly, and twisted a red ribbon about his neck, and tied a bow. Toots squirmed indignantly.

"See, Mother? Why, Toots, don't tear it off! That's our Christmas outfit." The badge of merriment dangled just beyond his reach. Disgusted, Toots crawled under the sofa.

Now was his chance. Did he dare attack? The tree, gaudy with bells and tinsel, seemed to mock him.

Cautiously, Toots jumped up on the sofa, sniffed at an extended bough. A slight breeze stirred, and a golden bird in the branches quivered. Toots crouched and sprang.

The tree went down with a swish, and was ablaze in a moment. Toots was surprised and terrified. He clawed at the door, and howled to heaven.

His noise brought the family, and the blaze was soon put out, but not before considerable damage had been done. The tree was a heap of smoldering blackened limbs.

"Toots, darling," cried Betty, "you're a hero!" and squeezed him impulsively. "Just think, if we hadn't heard him crying, we might have been burned out of house and home! And Toots, you shall have a Christmas present."

The parlor was locked up, and Toots' stool and cushion moved to the kitchen underneath the table. Cook was basting the turkey. A plate of goodies was offered him, but Toots only sniffed. He was tired. He found his place under the table and clawed the pillow into shape. He twisted and scratched. He licked his fur into place. He settled down.

At peace with the world, Toots lay on his very own pillow and slept. From under one paw dangled a piece of red ribbon.

Mother's Christmas Story

By Alice B. Palmer

T WAS Christmas eve and the children had gathered about the snow white Christmas tree, a glimmering mass of iridescent lights and icicles, to listen to that long-promised story of the Prince and Princess.

"Once upon a time," began Mother, "there was a tall handsome prince who loved a beautiful princess. They were to be married on Christmas eve—another Christmas eve, long ago."

"The gorgeous castle on the hillside was ablaze with Christmas lights. The Yule log was burning and crackling delightfully and the huge Christmas tree was sparkling gaily. But there were candles, tiny colored candles, children, instead of electric lights. They were lovely! Everything was most beautiful!"

"Oh, Mother," whispered little Rosebud, "I wish I was in that castle right now, looking at all the pretty things."

"Hurry up, Mother! Then what?" interrupted Danny, impatiently.

"What happened next?"

"Well, the prince and princess were married and then they all sat down to the wedding feast. Let me see," mused Mother, "they were all there—all of them, my dears. Right in the center of the table stood the most wonderful wedding cake you ever saw—a gold cake frosted with silver, and because it was Christmas the whole top was decorated with lovely little bells."

"Well, then, did they live happy forever and ever, Mother?" Rosebud wanted to know.

"Why, of course they did," shouted Danny, indignantly.

"Only a story," pondered Mother. "Would that I, too, could be made to believe that 'twas only a story."

"The prince!" wildly shouted the children, as a tall man stood in the doorway. They felt sure they had found the real prince as they clamored for explanation.

"The Prince!" Shouted the Children. A Tall Man in the Doorway.

"Oh, look, Mother!" cried Rosebud. "Look what the prince brought—things and dolls and everything—and—and a gold cake trimmed with silver with bells on it, too, just like the one in the story."

"Oh, boy," shouted Danny. "This is the best Christmas we ever had. Isn't it, Mother?"

Mother whispered, "Yes, dear," and then rushed into the outstretched arms of her loving husband, the really true prince who was waiting with a great big Christmas kiss. "And they all lived happily forever after," whispered Mother, through tears of Christmas joy.

THE RIGHTS OF ALL

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE world of all, and then our kind,

Our nation, then our state,
And then our town, for so we find
The good that makes us great.

The rights of all
We must recall,
And not a single race,
Our country love,
Yet thinking of
Each mortal in each place.

But, if the place consider just
Itself, the man his own,
The land will crumble into dust,
For none can stand alone.

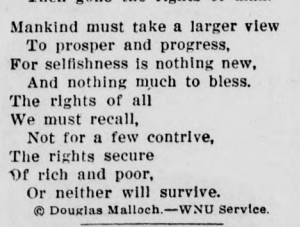

If for a class
And not the mass
We legislate and plan,
Then gone the things
We tore from kings,
Then gone the rights of man.

Mankind must take a larger view
To prosper and progress,
For selfishness is nothing new,
And nothing much to bless.

The rights of all
We must recall,
Not for a few contrive,
The rights secure
Of rich and poor,
Or neither will survive.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

SEASONABLE DISHES

THIS is the time of the year when pickles, preserves, relishes and marmalades are especially enjoyed. Most of these good things have been already prepared, yet there are a few most delightful ones left.

Cranberry Relish.

Take two cupfuls each of sour or cooking apples, put through the coarse knife of the food chopper with two cupfuls of cranberries, add one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of pecan meats finely shredded and set away for two or three days to season. This is delicious with turkey or goose.

Indian Chutney.

Take one pound of sour apples peeled and sliced; one-half pound of onions peeled and coarsely chopped, one pound of brown sugar (the light brown), one-half pound of raisins cut fine, four ounces each of salt and ginger, two ounces of dry mustard, one-half ounce of cayenne, four cloves of garlic finely chopped and one quart of mild vinegar. Cook the apples, onions, garlic and sugar, salt and vinegar until soft, then pass them through a very fine sieve. Add the raisins and ginger with the other ingredients, mix well and stand in a jar in a warm (not hot) place until the following day. The next day, seal the jar.

Through A WOMAN'S EYES

by
JEAN NEWTON

ON THE USES OF A TRUTH SERUM

A WOMAN under the anesthetic which we call "twilight sleep" had just given birth to a baby. The doctor wanted to weigh the baby and asked for the scales. Nobody knew where they were. Suddenly the mother, still "asleep," spoke up and said, "They are in the kitchen on the nail behind the picture!" For some time afterwards she continued "asleep" and remembered nothing of the incident.

All of which gave the doctor an idea with which he began experimenting. The result was the discovery that under the drug scopamine people must tell the truth. It seems it puts to sleep certain sections of the brain, including that "high resistance zone" with which we tell untruths, but leaves wide open the paths leading to the area where memories are stored away. Therefore under its influence people unconsciously tell the truth—they cannot tell anything else—and science has found a "truth serum."

The most important implications of the discovery are, of course, its possibilities in the detection of criminals. But most women will share our impulse to speculate on how far-reaching would be its use nearer home.

Think what it would mean to a er shortly. "I haven't done anything but what anybody else would have done. Old Mother Nature gave me a pair of good eyes and a strong voice. I simply make the best use of them I can. Just to see a hunter with a terrible gun makes me mad clear through. I'd rather spoil his hunting than eat."

"You want to watch out, Sammy. One of these days a hunter will lose his temper and shoot you, just to get even with you," warned Paddy the Beaver.

"Don't worry about me," replied Sammy. "I know just how far one of those terrible guns can shoot, and I don't take any chances. By the way, Lightfoot, the Green Forest is full of hunters looking for you. I've seen a lot of them, and I know they are looking for you because they do not shoot at anybody else even when they have a chance."

"My Empire" Wants Peace
"ME, Too," Says Selassie
Poppuns for Uncle Sam
$900,000,000 More

England's lord high chancellor, Viscount Hailsham, read the king's speech, written by the king's cabinet. The king's references to steps "urgently necessary to safeguard my empire" are recommended to this government. We haven't any "empire" exactly, but we have a republic worth defending. Some of our loose billions might be well spent in that direction.

Ignoring some Italian friction, the king went on to say, "My relations with foreign powers continue friendly."

Mentioning the Italian misunderstanding, he said: "My government will continue to exert their influence in favor of peace." If it does, peace will come.

Haile Selassie, emperor of Ethiopia, sensibly asked the Patriarch Johannes, supreme authority of the Ethiopian Coptic church, to arrange peace, if he can, with Mussolini, and Abuna Cyril, high bishop of his church, is asked by Selassie to do his best.

And now comes from Universal Service the important authoritative report that Haile Selassie has agreed to give part of his territory in return for peace.

Washington says this country plans a series of Pacific ocean "Gibraltars," armed with 16-inch guns with a fighting range of 25 to 30 miles. Quite amusing, considering that the original Gibraltar has become a useless rock, thanks to airplanes and submarines. Invading airplanes might not be kind enough to come within 25 or 30 miles of these interesting fixed Gibraltars.

What this country needs for coast protection is airplanes, for fighting, and dirigibles for observation, located close enough together and high enough up in the air to make them really useful in the next war.

Uncle Sam borrows $900,000,000 more, bringing the national debt above $30,500,000,000, but $40,000,000,000 below the amount that certain "great bankers" told President Roosevelt this country could easily carry. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. wants President Roosevelt to tell who the great bankers were, but it is understood that they talked in confidence.

Prince Sumi of Japan, brother of the Mikado, fourth son of the late Emperor Yoshihito, takes the title "Prince Mikasa," meaning, literally, "Prince of the Three Umbrellas." The name "Three Umbrellas" is taken from a Japanese mountain and is also the much revered name of the flagship on which Admiral Togo fought the battle of the Japan sea.

"Three Umbrellas" seems appropriate—one for Japan, one for China, one for the Philippines; all Japanese.

The village of Verde Cocha, near Guayaquil, in Ecuador, exists no longer. A landslide wiped out everything, instantly killing fifty inhabitants. A slice of green mountainside, two miles wide, came roaring down, and there was no trace of the village and no man lived to tell about it.

But other men will rebuild Verde Cocha, for men are as persistent as ants, that rebuild their villages when the gardener's hose sweeps them away.

Senator Borah of Idaho and Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, had a long talk, and reporters "guess" that Senator Borah and Mr. Fish have agreed to run side by side, Senator Borah for President, Mr. Fish for Vice President. It is not safe to "guess" about Senator Borah, but it would be wise for the Republicans to decide soon.

When experimenting starts, it keeps going. Hitler, manufacturing cannon, knows they will need "food," and insists on more babies. A German farmer gets a divorce because his wife wants no children. "It is the duty of German wives to perpetuate the German blood," the court says.

Miss Edna Maria Granitsas, twenty-two-year-old member of a Massachusetts school committee, says teachers talk too much, do not let the children talk enough. She says children should be encouraged to express themselves. The Massachusetts lady goes far when she says "if a child wants to yell out in class, let the child yell until he decides not to yell." Discipline is also a part of education.

TOPNOTCHERS by KET

PEOPLE FEAR THE THINGS THEY DO NOT UNDERSTAND

The beautiful voice of a famous opera singer issuing forth in song caused a panic on board a ship!

Seriously—that is the content of a news dispatch from off the coast of Australia where an American ship carrying explorers was recently anchored. The voice of the singer came through a gramophone, and the audience among whom it caused a panic was composed of natives, who ran in terror from something that they did not understand.

It may seem incomprehensible to us that a beautiful voice should instill dislike or fear. Whatever the language of the song, you may say, is not beautiful singing beautiful to all who can hear—as the trilling of a bird must sound the same to men of any color and any language?

But the beauty of the voice is obscured by the fact that its source is something the natives do not understand. For that reason it is an object of suspicion—and of fear.

If we stop to think about it, it will surprise many of us to realize how much we have in common with those Australian natives in that we frequently refuse to see beauty in the things we do not understand. We too are suspicious and fearful of things we do not know. Most of the world's bigotry and prejudice springs from ignorance. And many of us, if we but realized it, create a spectacle no less foolish and unreasonable than those natives in panic over a beautiful voice issuing from a gramophone when we condemn without investigation, when we turn without consideration from things which are new, things which are different, ways to which we are not accustomed.

in California. Its scenic attractions are many and varied, ranging from desert to snow-capped mountains. Its resorts are internationally known, notably Palm Springs, playground of the wealthy. In the city of Riverside is the world-famous Riverside Inn.

Riverside has 4746 farms embracing 633,932 acres. Crops produced, headed by oranges, have an annual valuation mounting into many many millions of dollars. In a land where water is essential to soil cultivation, Riverside has an abundant supply and has approximately 125,000 irrigated acres. Every plant known to the temperate and semitropic zones can be grown successfully. Production of oranges and lemons is the leading industry while hay, barley, wheat, oats and alfalfa crops are produced in enormous quantities. Fruits, melons, walnuts, vegetables and dairy and poultry products rank high. In one year, Riverside produced 1,812,023 pounds of dates. The county also is a great honey producing center and boasts 40,000 colonies of bees. In this county is located the citrus experiment station and graduate school of sub-tropical horticulture. The soil is a rich silt, the entire region having once been the bed of an inland sea.

Pinto-Gino Match At Forman's Sat.

Having both met Joe Savoldi in the last two weeks and emerged undefeated, Stanley Pinto and Gino Garibaldi have been signed to wrestle one of the two main events scheduled for Forman's arena Saturday night.

Garibaldi, with 37 successive victories behind him, without a defeat, has become the outstanding wrestler on the Pacific coast. Rough in his tactics, he nevertheless proves a great wrestler, scoring his falls when they are needed for a win.

Sad-eyed Pinto worked over Savoldi so bad here last week that the former champion wound up in San Jose hospital for treatment. All of which means that despite Garibaldi's roughness, he may find his Waterloo in Pinto. Stan has only lost one match in San Jose in two years, which is quite a record itself.
